

Edmund C. Baird
Counsel for Standards in the Office
Office of the Solicitor of the U.S. Department of Labor

In this position he oversees the legal advice given to the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) when it develops and adopts safety and health standards. He was the lead attorney for the recent rulemaking to incorporate the Globally Harmonized System for the Classification and Labeling of Chemicals into OSHA's Hazard Communication Standard. Mr. Baird is a part of the U.S. delegation to the UN Sub-Committee of Experts on the GHS, and chairs that body's working group studying the possibility of developing a global list of harmonized chemical classifications

Before joining the Solicitor's Office in 2007, he handled trial and appellate matters in private practice, and also worked in the Civil Appeals Division of the Illinois Attorney General's Office.

Mr. Baird holds a B.A. from the University of Rochester and a J.D. from Washington University in St. Louis.
