SDSRP Benefits

Preparing for and taking the registry exam expands your knowledge base; it introduced me to classification criteria I had not used in my professional experience. Taking the registry exam and maintaining the credential assures my employer and my clients that I am creating SDS according to industry and current best practice.

words...

I have done two litigation cases and it was very important I had this credential as an expert witness. There are a lot of weaknesses in what the database programs provide for information that are attacked in litigation. Reason for maintaining the credential is a stronger base of knowledge than routinely seen.
